TOKIO PRESS COMMENTS ON ANTI-ALIEN LAW

AMERICAN ELECTION ATTRACTS ATTENTION IN JAPAN, BUT CALIFORNIA VOTE IS SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

TOKIO, Nov. 5.—General disappointment and, in two instances, hints of serious consequences were the underlying notes of the comment of the Tokio press on the result of the California vote on the anti-alien land law.

The American election attracted great interest in Japan, but the California vote was the big subject of discussion in editorial columns.

The Kokumin was the chief newspaper which saw clouds ahead. It declared that the action of California contains the seed for armed conflict and predicted further moves to deprive American born Japanese of American citizenship.

Other newspapers expressed confidence that a happy solution of the problem would be reached by the Democratic party before it steps out of power, some saying that President-elect Harding was pledged to support the anti-Japanese program in California.

WILSON MAY RESUBMIT TREATY TO SENATE

MAY MAKE SEPARATE PEACE WITH GERMANY BEFORE HARDING IS INAUGURATED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—No intimation has yet come from the White House as to what course President Wilson will follow about the peace treaty.

Observers today pointed out all four possible courses:

That Wilson may do nothing about either the treaty or League;

That he may resubmit the treaty to the Senate with notification that he will accept reservations;

That he may resign and step out of the treaty fight;

That he may make a separate peace with Germany before Harding is inaugurated.

However, no intimation was forthcoming from either Wilson or his close associates.

DROP IN BREAD PRICES ANNOUNCED TODAY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—With the announcement of a 2c drop in wholesale bread prices, announced by the Bradford Baking Company today, retail prices were expected to drop 2c per loaf also.

Retail price of 1½-pound loaves is expected to be 14c.

MISSIONARY MEETING

LADIES OF WEST GLENDALE CHURCH IN ALL-DAY SESSION

Most enthusiastic and profitable was the all-day meeting held yesterday by the Home Missionary society of the West Glendale M. E. church.

The ladies were delighted with the large number of garments sent in for the three orphanages in which they are interested, and their satisfaction was heightened by the fact that every article of clothing received was in such good condition. Nearly one hundred garments were received and they will be sent to the David and Margaret Home at La Verne, the Frances De Pauw Home in Hollywood, and the Deaconess' Home in Los Angeles.

Luncheon was served at noon in the church. The next meeting will take place the first Thursday in December.

Home From El Paso

Mr. and Mrs. Lorimer Johnston, who have been sojourning in El Paso for some time, have returned to Glendale and are domiciled at the Kay apartments, at South Louise and Maple streets.

Will Dine Together

The Sunday School Board of the First Methodist Church will hold its regular monthly dinner at half past six in the church this evening. Topics of interest to the Sunday School will be discussed.

PASTOR'S AID

PRESBYTERIAN LADIES PREPARE CHRISTMAS BOX FOR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

The ladies of the Pastor's Aid society of the First Presbyterian church met in the church hall last Tuesday for an all-day sewing bee.

Besides work on several handsome quilts which they are making, the ladies made considerable progress on articles for Christmas boxes to be sent to the Indian Industrial school in Arizona, the Forsythe Memorial school in Los Angeles and the Tooker School in Oakland. Luncheon was served at noon.

CHILD'S TRACT

EASTERN SECTION OF CITY IS TAKING ON NEW LIFE

Perhaps no section near the heart of the city shows as great a change from pre-war conditions as the Childs tract, that part of it bounded by Lomita and Glendale avenues, Everett and Colorado streets. For years there were only seven houses in this section, but now there are more than a score, large and small. There is one of 10 rooms, 2 stories, going up now and many smaller ones, also a number of garages for temporary residences. Some of these latter are of substantial construction, plastered exterior and artistic design. Many lots in this tract have been sold recently, the majority of them to be built on soon.

Meeting Postponed

On account of the Armistice Day celebration next Thursday, the regular meeting of the city board of trustees will be postponed to Friday evening.

Move to New Home

Chas. Wesson and wife are moving from 619 Orange Grove avenue to 418 Vine. About a year ago they bought the place on Orange Grove avenue, a rear house in a bad state of repair. They improved it greatly with repairs and paint and sold it to the Fowlers, who are now proprietors of the Virginia Sweet Shop on East Broadway. They bought the place on Vine, which was also badly run down, and made a very nice-appearing home of it before moving in.

MANY FAIL TO VOTE

ONE-FOURTH OF GLENDALE'S VOTERS FAILED TO CAST BALLOT TUESDAY

The total registration for Glendale was 7118. The highest number of votes cast in Tuesday's election were for president 5,133 so 1,985, over one-fourth of the voters, failed to go to the polls. The next highest vote cast was for Senator, 4,981, and the next 4,951, on Proposition No. 1, the Japanese exclusion act.

WEATHER FORECAST—Probably fair.

VERDUGO WASH BRIDGE ASSURED

PACIFIC ELECTRIC PROMISES WORK ON THE STRUCTURE TO START SOON

FIRE LIMITS FIXED

DELAY CAUSED BY DIFFICULTY IN OBTAINING MATERIAL, PLANK SAYS

D. E. Plank, bridge builder for the Pacific Electric railway, was a caller at the City Hall yesterday.

The Glendale board of trustees had written the Pacific Electric company, asking when the bridge over the Verdugo Wash was to be built, and Mr. Plank was commissioned to say that the company will begin work on the permanent bridge in two weeks. Delay in building the bridge was caused by difficulty in obtaining materials, he said.

The P. E. requested that the east roadway be closed for a part of the time during the construction of the bridge, and to this the board agreed.

Many New Homes

A. T. O'Connell, a new resident of the Verdugo Woodlands section of Glendale, who was in recently to order the Evening News, says that there are more than 75 houses in that part of the city and many new ones are rising. None of the houses are numbered yet and they have not free delivery, getting their mail either in the Glendale postoffice or on rural routes, but that will come later, probably when Glendale has an independent postoffice. The house numbering will probably have to be done on a system different from that prevailing in the main city as some of the streets run in practically every direction, being laid out in curves.

New Status of Egypt

According to the London "Times," the Commission, headed by Viscount Milner, recently sent to Egypt to undertake preliminary studies for a constitution for that country, has now not only carried out its task, but has recommended that Egypt be recognized as a formally independent country.

Among the detailed recommendations, as reported, are the recognition by Egypt of Great Britain's privileged position in the valley of the Nile and the agreement, in case of war, to afford every facility for access to Egyptian territory; the maintenance by Great Britain at all times of a garrison along the Suez Canal; the abolishment of the capitulations (those treaties which give foreigners in Egypt the right of exemption from local tribunals—if a foreigner commits a crime he cannot be tried by Egyptian law); the partial control by Egypt of foreign relations, with the limitation that no treaties shall be made contrary to British policy; the gradual replacement of British officials and soldiers by Egyptian officials and soldiers; the administration of the public debt by a mixed commission; the exclusion of the Sudan from all these arrangements. They transform England's protectorate over Egypt into an alliance.

Should official announcement confirm the above, two circumstances will stand out as having had a good deal to do with the commission's decision. The first, of course, is the state of public feeling in Egypt itself. During the war outbreaks were largely kept down by military rule, but as soon as peace was declared the campaign of the Egyptian extremists resulted in serious outbreaks and even assassination. The second is the wave of bolshevism now threatening the Eastern Hemisphere. If Lenine and Trotsky, having listened for years to the cries from Egypt concerning alleged English oppression, think that Egypt will surely throw in her lot with the Russian proletariat, they may find that they have been checkmated.—Exchange.

New Street

Enumerators for the city directory discovered a new street in Glendale that is not on any map, which very few citizens except those in the immediate vicinity seem to have heard of. It is Madison Court and extends out east from Glendale avenue, a short distance south of Cypress avenue. There are three houses on this street, which ends about half way up the hillside, being about 1000 feet in length.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY TRUSTEES

On motion of Trustee Robinson it was ordered that the request be granted and the City Attorney be directed to bring in the necessary proceedings.

A communication was read from the County Auditor requesting that the Board of Trustees authorize him to cancel delinquent taxes on lot 18, block 59, town of Glendale; the same having been erroneously listed as delinquent, amount $8.28. On motion of Trustee Henry the request of the Auditor was agreed to and it was ordered that cancellation be made as requested.

WEDDING OF MISS SCOTT A SURPRISE

GLENDALE FRIENDS LEARN OF HER MARRIAGE TO C. M'DONALD

PARENTS IN SECRET

GROOM IS SAN FRANCISCO MAN WITH MINING INTERESTS IN NEVADA

Friends of Miss Merva Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Scott of 462 Hawthorne street, were surprised to learn of her marriage on October 4th to Mr. C. McDonald, of San Francisco.

Only the parents of the bride participated in the secret, and while they were compelled sometimes to hold their teeth shut tight to keep from telling it, be it said to their credit that they refrained for a month, until the arrival here of the bride and groom on their honeymoon. Since their marriage they have been traveling through the northern states and arrived in Glendale Wednesday morning to make Mr. and Mrs. Scott a brief visit, leaving on Thursday to continue their honeymoon.

Mrs. McDonald has many friends in Glendale who wish her happiness in her new life. She has lived in Glendale for some time, and attended Glendale High School. During the war she was one of the official entertainers for the boys at the different camps. She had a brilliant future ahead of her on the stage, but has given up her career to preside over her home.

Since taking up her work on the stage, she has traveled all over the country, and it was while filling an engagement in Nevada that she first met Mr. McDonald.

Mr. McDonald is the superintendent of a large mine in Nevada, where he has hosts of friends. As soon as business arrangements will permit, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald will tour the eastern states and Canada. They will probably make their home in Nevada.

was referred to the Finance Committee.

The report of the City Recorder showed receipts during the month of October amounting to $625.

The reports were filed, the report of the Treasurer being approved by the Finance Committee.

A communication was presented from the City Manager reporting in regard to the claim of the county for a refund of tax money on account of the former city of Tropico, referred to him at the previous meeting, stating that the claim appears to be a just one; calling attention to the fact, however, that there is due the city of Glendale on account of delinquent taxes from the Tropico District, a sum of money more than sufficient to cover this claim. He recommended therefore that the County Auditor be authorized to credit all amounts received on account of delinquent taxes and tax sales from the Tropico District on this account until the same is paid. On motion of Trustee Stephenson it was ordered that settlement be made in accordance with this recommendation.

The City Manager presented a copy of a tentative lease whereby the Salt Lake Railway Company leases to the city for a term of five years for the sum of $5.00 per month, certain ground for a storage yard at the southwest corner of Lexington Drive and Glendale avenue. On motion of Trustee Stephenson, it was ordered that the chairman of the Board and the City Clerk sign the lease on behalf of the city.

A petition was presented signed by Thomas A. Wright and other property owners requesting that the Board of Trustees take the necessary proceedings for the construction of a sewerage disposal system for a portion of the block bounded by Brand Blvd., Broadway and Maryland Ave.; that the same be in accordance with plans and specifications furnished by the City of Glendale and that proceedings be taken under the ten-year bond act. On motion of Trustee Stephenson the City Attorney was instructed to prepare the necessary proceedings in compliance with the request of the petitioners.

On motion of Trustee Henry it was ordered that all city offices in the city of Glendale, with the exception of the police and fire departments, be closed Saturday afternoons from 12:00 o'clock.

On motion of Trustee Stephenson it was ordered that Thursday, November 11, 1920, Armistice Day, be

HARDING SAYS LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS DEAD

NEGOTIATIONS LOOKING TO REBUILDING OF "ENTENTE CORDIALE" WILL BE BEGUN SOON

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

MARION, O., Nov. 5.—The League of Nations has been pronounced dead by President-elect Warren G. Harding.

In one smashing sentence the next President of the United States sounded the death knell of the covenant. It came as the climax of his first speech since the election, delivered to his Marion neighbors from the front porch last night when they came by the thousands to congratulate him on his election.

"You didn't want a surrender of the United States," Harding said. "You wanted America to be free and unmortgaged. That is why you didn't care for the League, which is now deceased."

Negotiations looking to the rebuilding of an "entente cordiale" with other nations will be begun soon by the Republican president-elect, according to belief here. The two moves expected to be made in the near future are a meeting with Mexican leaders, including probably President-elect Obregon, on the border while Harding is vacationing at Point Isabel, Texas, and conferences with Senate leaders over drafting of a resolution declaring the war with Germany at an end and providing for resumption of normal trade relations.

WIDESPREAD RAIDS BY MILITARY OFFICERS

TENSION INCREASES IN CORK, IRELAND, TODAY; CLOSE FRIEND OF MAC SWINEY ELECTED MAYOR

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CORK, Ireland, Nov. 5.—Tension here had increased today with reports of widespread raids by military officers. It was taken for granted that further tragedies are bound to occur, and both Irish and British were steeling themselves to meet the situation.

The excitement surrounding the MacSwiney funeral had not yet died away today. The election of Donald O'Callaghan, a close friend of MacSwiney's, as mayor of Cork, showed the attitude of the people.

The impending death of nine hunger strikers in prison here is adding to the tenseness.

HERBERT HOOVER COMMENTS ON LEAGUE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 5.—Herbert Hoover, commenting on the election results, today declared, "Our entry into the League on a basis of any military obligation is certainly dead since the major fight has been around Article 10." Hoover declared the Republican party will now contribute America's part to the formation of a "League or Association of Nations that will rest upon moral measures and judicial institutions."

MOTSCH FAMIIY

IN GLENDALE AFTER A VISIT WITH RELATIVES IN BUFFALO

Frank N. Motsch and wife and their son Franklin arrived from a trip to Buffalo, N. Y., where they visited Mr. Motsch's mother, sister and brother, whom he had not seen for six years. They were gone just three weeks and had a fine trip both ways. Franklin, who had just recovered from a very dangerous gunshot wound inflicted by a neighbor boy a few months ago, stood the trip splendidly. The family are now in their home at 2139 Kenneth Road and mighty glad to be back in Glendale again.

Move From Venice

Robert Bungay and wife, their two sons and Mrs. Bungay's mother, moved up from Venice today and are occupying Mrs. L. B. Rambeau's home at 122 West Lomita avenue. Mrs. Rambeau and her mother, Mrs. Lindleberger, will go tomorrow to Ramona's Marriage Place, which is the name generally given to North San Diego, and will spend the winter there. Mrs. Rambeau has leased her home for six months only and will return to Glendale at the end of that time, as she says she would not be contented to live anywhere else.

NUMBER HOUSES

RESIDENTS OF GRAND VIEW DISTRICT ARE ASKING FOR THEIR RIGHTS

Now that the Grand View district is legally a part of Glendale, since the court of last resort has declared the proceedings legal, the residents are demanding that their houses be numbered. This will be an easy job, as the streets are all straight and extend either in a general north and south or east and west direction. Much building is going on up there now both in a residence and a business way and this bids fair to be one of the most beautiful sections of the city.

NEW RESIDENTS

MR. AND MRS. J. C. HALL OF ABERDEEN, S. D., ARE HERE

Mrs. A. R. Goodale, of 616 North Columbus avenue, is rejoicing in the fact that her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hall, of Aberdeen, South Dakota, have decided to make their home in Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall have purchased the W. A. Nicholas residence at 535 West Patterson avenue. A month's sojourn here was sufficient to convince them that Glendale, of all places, was the best place to make their home.

Pleasant Afternoon

Mrs. Katherine Fenstermaker, of East Maple street, was hostess yesterday afternoon to a group of friends which included Mesdames Ray Goode, Edward Wolbach, Chas. Wells, Bruce and Merle Burke.

Needlework and conversation formed the diversions of the afternoon, at whose close a dainty collation was served by the hostess.

DISTRICT MEETING

MEMBERS OF GLENDALE CHRISTIAN CHURCH ATTEND CONFERENCE IN L. A.

Best, Mrs. Vernon Putnam and Mrs. Cleo Stoler were in Los Angeles yesterday to attend a joint meeting of the official boards of the Christian churches of the Los Angeles district and the representatives of the United Christian Missionary Society. The official boards met with Rev. C. R. Hudson, the new secretary for Southern California, to plan a united missionary budget. At the missionary meeting Mrs. Alice Jackson, state secretary, gave a report of the work of the St. Louis convention. Mrs. Floyd Mercer and Mrs. Cleo Stoler were on the program for a vocal solo.

Colors

Answering the question, "What kind of clays will produce certain colors and why?" The Clay Worker says:

Clays without any iron produce under oxidizing firing conditions white brick or cream colored brick under reducing firing conditions.

Sometimes clays blood red or dark blue or even black burn to a white color, because the color of the clay is caused by organic matter, which burns out at a dull red heat.

Clay that contains from three to four per cent of iron burns to a buff color and also clay with less iron burns buff, if the heat is carried high enough.

Clay that contains from four to seven per cent of iron burns to a red, to a dark or cherry red color if the heat is sufficient to burn a dark red.

Such clays also burn to a black color according to the intensity of the heat with reducing firing.

The color of raw clay has not a particle to do with the final color of the brick in the kiln.

As stated the color of the raw clay is caused by organic matter and the color of the burned brick depends on the iron contents and the intensity of the heat and the firing conditions, which may be oxidizing or reducing.

For instance: A red burning clay when burned under reducing firing conditions burns dark blue or black, if these conditions are kept up long enough.

Why? Because the oxide of iron that burns the brick red and which is in the ferric state, changes under reducing firing conditions to the ferrous state, which is dark blue or black.

A clay that burns cream will burn buff with a higher heat and reducing firing conditions.

White burning clays will burn to a bluish or yellowish tint, if fired for any length of time under reducing kiln atmosphere, therefore whiteware burners are very careful, that a kiln does not smoke heavy after firing up. If it does, they punch a hole for air over the fires and the air will burn up the smoke and create oxidizing conditions, and the ware burns clear white.—Exchange.

LET US BE TOLERANT

No right-thinking man depreciates the influence of the church, for it is the heart, the vital center, the fountain-head of the best life of any community. All the other forces for good in the community, without the added influence of the church, are inadequate. The home alone cannot solve our many problems; the schools alone cannot do it. Those in the homes and in the schools are depending today as never before on the co-operative service of the church. All social workers have come to see that the world is not saved by education of the mind alone. True education cannot be so limited by "hampering restrictions that permit the child to be taught geography, but not about the God who made the earth; botany, but not about the God who clothed the flower; physiology, but not about the God who built the man; history, but not about divine providence in human affairs," writes Judge Thomas C. T. Crain, of the Court of General Sessions of New York City. So moved was this jurist by the need of religious training for the young that he purchased three columns of space in New York papers in which to argue the thesis that no child is educated if he has not been taught some religious faith.

Upon the church devolves the great responsibility of the awakening of the souls of these young people to the consciousness of God's presence; the church must teach them to know God, to love Him and to serve Him.

While it may be technically correct to say that a large per cent of the population of the United States are not enrolled as members of any Christian denomination, it is certainly incorrect to infer from that statement that a majority of these people are opposed to religion or even devoid of interest in it.

Many of them are "seekers after God"—all of them await the touch of their Creator, by whom they are dearly loved, whether they are in the fold or without it; so dearly loved, in the opinion of a great saint of the olden day, that if even an ignorant heathen among them, a benighted savage, were dying alone in a wild, waste land, without the grace of faith, God would send an angel from His Heaven to teach him the doctrine of His love. Since we are all loved children of one Father, how blind, then, how futile, is criticism of the churches by those without, and cavilling at those without by those who belong to the churches. And have we not the right, perhaps, to expect a greater degree of that greatest of all virtues, charity, from those who belong to the church than from those who do not, since it is the teaching of Him whom they call Master that it covers a multitude of sins, and that, though one have faith that will move mountains, and have not charity, he is as sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal?

All souls belong to God, and find no real peace until they rest in Him. Sooner or later every soul becomes conscious of this restlessness, this yearning, this incompleteness—unless, indeed, it has utterly killed itself with the wilful and deliberate doing of evil deeds. This yearning, vague and imperfectly understood, oft times will prompt the man or woman outside the church to deeds of signal service toward his fellow-man. His church-member critics may not acknowledge that he does these things by the power of God. Perhaps, however, it is not necessary for him to say, "I serve my fellow-man through the power of God" any more than it is necessary for a man to say, "I breathe through the power of God." There is no record of the Good Samaritan's making any avowal of his dependence on God's power; and yet his deeds stand forever as Christ's standards of the fulfillment of the second commandment which He said was like unto the first. What Christ called love was not dependent on professions, apparently; it was dependent on deeds. By parable He taught that one who said he loved and did not act, did not love; while one who did not say he loved, but acted, did love.

Was it the great and gentle Charles Lamb who said, "I can never hate a man if I know him?" Whoever said it, it is a principle worthy of our attention. Could we hate our neighbor, if we knew him? And if we cannot know him, cannot understand him, let us be charitable in our judgment of him.

Now there remaineth these three: faith, hope and charity: but the greater of these is charity.

ECONOMIZING LUMBER IN BUILDING

The old adage "a penny saved is a penny made" is just as good in its application to building as to any other business. At the present day level of prices for both materials and labor it is more important than ever that there should be as little waste as possible in building construction.

Experienced and efficient builders are always alert to save a dollar or a penny where its expenditure would not result in any material gain or benefit. Such builders distinguish between real economy and cheapness. They do not sacrifice good construction merely to save a dollar. They minimize waste and obtain the most and the best that it is possible to obtain for the money expended.

There is a popular belief that builders are not always careful to avoid waste and that those who have materials to sell have no interest except to sell the largest quantity regardless of whether it is needed or used. But that is not true of either builders or material dealers who have the success of their business at heart. Waste runs up the cost of building and the more costs are held down the more encouragement there is for people to build. The present day tendency, therefore, of those who are endeavoring to exploit certain lines of materials, is to promote their use by pointing out how they can be used most economically and to the best advantage.

A recent bulletin issued by the architectural and building code service of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association is devoted to standard lengths, sizes and quality of lumber as related to economic design. This bulletin points out that since there are certain established standards of lengths and sizes, as well as significant differences in grades of lumber, it is important that they can be intelligently applied to the design of buildings for the purpose of reducing the cost of construction where possible. For example, the bulletin says "in designing the floor plan of a building the fact that standard lengths of joists are multiples of two feet, 4 ft. to 24 ft, inclusive, should be an important consideration in determining the widths and lengths of each room. Odd lengths, such as joists 9, 11, 13 and 15 ft., not commonly carried in stock, are charged as the next longer even length and cut at the yard before delivery, or delivered in the next longer even length, necessitating cutting by the carpenter on the job. The waste here is obvious, both in material and labor, and could easiiy be avoided by careful design."

This applies also to studding, in designing the height of stories, and also to rafters, in fixing the pitch of the roof. There are other ways of economizing in the use of materials. For example, knowing the price per thousand of several lengths and sizes of lumber a little mathematics will determine whether it is cheaper to use 16 lengths of 2x8 in. joists 16-in. on centers or 12 lengths of 2x10-in. joists 20-in. on centers.

Of course there can be waste, even though the building is economically designed, if the lumber lists are prepared by careless or incompetent builders or if the materials are handled on the job by inexperienced or thoughtless workmen. A competent builder who knows and employs only competent men is the only guarantee against such waste.—Southwest Builder and Contractor.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY TRUSTEES

On motion of Trustee Robinson it was ordered that a six-inch water pipe be laid from tract No. 3671 south to Sixth street at the expense of the property owners.

The City Manager stated that he had heard from Judge Ross in regard to the sale of a lot to the city for reservoir purposes and that although not anxious to dispose of the property Judge Ross is considering the matter of price to be agreed upon between himself and the city.

The engineer of the Public Service Department reported that the plans prepared for the construction of a reservoir by the city had been approved by the State Engineering Department.

The Treasurer presented a quit claim deed which had been prepared in accordance with instructions previously given him by the Board, covering the east 167.75 feet of the south 100 feet of lot 18, block 14, Brand Blvd. Tract, to Edith M. Andrews. He stated that the amount due the city on this lot had been paid and on motion the chairman of the Board and the City Clerk were authorized to sign the same on behalf of the city.

Canvass of Returns

The chairman appointed Trustees Stephenson and Henry as tellers to canvass the election returns on the bond election of November 2, 1920. After having completed the canvass the tellers made the following report:

Total number of votes cast.....4466
For the proposition .....3011
Against the proposition .....1455

being more than the necessary two-thirds required for the approval of the proposition. On motion of Trustee Henry a resolution declaring the result of the vote at the special election, held in the City of Glendale on November 2, 1920, was adopted as Resolution No. 1134.

The City Attorney recommended that the city procure an opinion from Attorney J. C. Thomson, of New York City, in regard to the validity of the $100,000 bond issue. The recommendation of the City Attorney was concurred in and it was ordered that he secure the same.

On motion of Trustee Stephenson the City Attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance authorizing the issue of bonds in the amount of $100,000 in accordance with the authority given by the result of the bond election of November 2, 1920.

The City Attorney reported that the annexation of the Grand View District to the city of Glendale has finally been approved by the Supreme Court.

Trustee Stephenson as a representative of the Board of the committee to arrange for the observance of Armistice Day reported as follows: sub-committees had been appointed to arrange for a proper celebration of the day, the chief feature of which would be a parade which would terminate at 11:00 a. m. on Brand Blvd. The committee requests that the city decorate the line of march and that the Board of Trustees participate in the parade; and further, that the city furnish a police escort. He also recommended that the Board authorize participation of the fire department in the parade. On motion of Trustee Robinson it was ordered that the recommendations made by Trustee Stephenson in regard to this matter be approved and that the Board give its authority and support as recommended.

A resolution offered by Trustee Stephenson was adopted as Resolution No. 1135 appointing election officers for the charter election on November 16, 1920.

Trustee Henry offered the following resolution which was adopted: That the fire limits on Brand Blvd., south of Lomita avenue to the city limits, be fixed at a distance of 25 feet from the property line on each side of said boulevard; and that such provision be incorporated in the new fire ordinance now being prepared.

An ordinance previously presented to the Board regulating traffic was on motion of Trustee Stephenson adopted as Ordinance No. 410.

Trustee Stephenson presented an ordinance regulating the construction and maintenance of public and private automobile garages, automobile filling stations, gasoline curb pumps and portable filling tanks or buggies, and repealing Ordinance No. 377, which was read and laid over for adoption.

On recommendation of Trustee Stephenson it was ordered that Miss Regina Baker be appointed director of the Magnolia School grounds.

The City Engineer presented maps of Tracts No. 3403 and No. 3934, which were approved and adopted by Resolution No. 1136.

The City Manager made the following recommendations in regard to the removal of trees which were on motion approved by the Board:

Application of I. W. Payne referred to the City Forester.

Application of J. Allen Adams be granted.

Application of Miss Hall, Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Davis be denied.

The application of Mrs. Wm. Cox for the removal of two eucalyptus trees be granted and her application for the removal of one pepper tree be denied.

Much trouble would be avoided if more persons were as anxious to obey laws as they are to violate them.

ENGLAND'S "JILLS" BUILDING HOUSES

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(By Mail.)—"This is the house that Jill built."

The Jills of England are competing with the Jacks in many trades hitherto monopolized by men and an interesting adventure into the building trade is now being made by a firm styled "Women Builders," which has its offices at 56 Victoria Street.

The women's pioneer in this movement is Mrs. Oliver Strachey, who has just completed the building of her own house at Haslemere. For this house she was her own contractor and employed almost exclusively female labor, women ramming the walls, shoveling the earth and distempering the rooms.

However, a mere man bricklayer built the chimneys and a burly male carpenter made the doors.

Mrs. Strachey is now busy building another house and is increasing her number of women workers. Many ex-farmerettes and others have applied to her for employment in the building trade. In the spring the private company which is being formed with Mrs. Strachey at its head will launch out on a bigger scale and undertake the building of houses large and small, cottages, garages, etc., for clients who can, if they wish, supply their own plans.

On the first house she built, Mrs. Strachey claims she saved at least $1000 and the old-established male contractors are beginning to look to their laurels, for the women have proved themselves just as efficient as men at the work and quite a lot quicker.

There is one crime for which we may forgive a ball player; that's stealing a base.

Artificial Silk

(By United Press)

BERLIN, Oct. 20. (By Mail)—Factories which formerly made the stuff to deal death on the western front are now turning out wondrous artificial silk to adorn womankind and mankind.

The artificial silk industry, already under way before the war, has been greatly augmented and is now in a position to establish a considerable competition not alone with the real silk industry but with the artificial silk factories of other lands.

German experts are striving now to overcome the drawbacks attendant upon the artificial brand, or "Kunstseide," as they call it. Dampness has a deteriorating effect, but research work shows that this disadvantage will soon be disposed of.

American buyers are manifesting strong interest in the new business and declare that there is a great demany for this product.

Herr Geheimrat Hagemann, chief of the artificial silk branch of the government's economic ministry, told the United Press:

"The silk was made in Germany even before the war in considerable quantities. But the demand for it has increased since the war, since the spirit of all peoples since the war and revolutionary period is for a better life and this is expressed in one way through the universally prevalent desire of the woman's world for gay colors.

"In addition to the old silk factories of pre-war times, there are now a number of former explosive factories engaged in producing the artificial product. This is explained by the fact that both explosives and artificial silk are derived from cellulose. Among others, the big explosive factories in Koeln-Rottweil are being converted into silk factories, while the explosive factory at Zehlendorf, near here, along with numerous other factories are engaged in the same occupation.

"This industry is especially important for Germany because we do not need to import the raw materials therefor. And, despite the fact that in recent weeks the industry has been limited by coal shortage, the nation is producing a considerable quantity of the raw silk as well as finished products like neckties, ribbons, cords and so on. We feel that we are especially in a position to meet competition since we know about dyeing, and the goods have proven durable and of manifold variety."

Geheimrat indicated his belief that the pre-war demand for German "mode-articles" would spring up again, especially since Germany was in a position to deliver them on the world market at low prices.

Recently American experts have been looking over the field, and it is believed that they are either preparing to buy large quantities of the German product or else to attempt to acquire German silk factories.

Bootlegging whiskey is increasing here. Well, haven't we the right kind of extermination?

Will Spend $20,000,000

(By United Press)

PARIS, Nov. 1. (By Mail).—Two years after the armistice, the American Red Cross today is still Big-Brothering eighteen war-stricken European nations, helping to clean up the human refuse of the war.

Over a thousand American nurses, doctors and relief workers wearing Red Cross insignia are scattered throughout Europe administering in many cases, to the same people against whom they were fighting in 1918. It is estimated that around 400,000 received help last month in Austria-Hungary and Poland alone.

At the general headquarters in Paris, the organization holds itself ready to answer a call for help from any part of Europe. When thousands were rendered homeless by the earthquake in Italy, the American Red Cross rushed quantities of provisions and corps of skilled doctors to the devastated Carrera district. When General Denikin's offensive collapsed in South Russia and some 2,000,000 refugees crowded into Crimea, the Red Cross saw to it that they did not starve.

In devastated France one and a half million francs worth of provisions were distributed free this last year. An equal amount was handed over to needy in Eastern and Central Europe.

In fact, all Europe has formed the habit of looking toward the American relief organization to direct first aid measures, no matter where the catastrophe or suffering may be. Thanks to it and the Hoover Relief Commission, America has gained the reputation of the world's great altruist and philanthropist.

With a 1921 appropriation of $20,000,000 already assured for next year's work here, Red Cross chiefs are planning to concentrate on child welfare work throughout the continent, thus helping to stave off the ill effects of war—physical and mental—upon the coming generation.

The Red Cross plans to put 150 trained units in the field to look after the physical welfare of the 2,000,000 children whom the American Relief Association is feeding.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Adams, of 417 West Maple street, are spending a week in Imperial Valley. They will return to Glendale next Wednesday.

Alexander street is still keeping up its building record. Albert W. Holmes yesterday took out a permit for a four-room residence on that street, at 616.

Rev. R. W. Mottern and family are preparing to move from the Lutheran church parsonage, 111 East Harvard, to the new house Geo. Daugherty is building for them at 219 North Adams.

Relatives and friends in La Crescenta of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Haines, formerly of that city but now living in Bartlesville, Okla., are rejoicing with them over the birth to them on October 12, 1920, of a son, Ralph Emerson Haines, Jr.

Mrs. A. W. Dickinson wishes to thank the Elks and her many Glendale friends for their kindness and for the flowers sent her during her recent illness when she was at the Angelus Hospital. She is again at home with her family at 760 Ulloa street, San Francisco, and gaining daily.

Mrs. V. Prosser, who sold the home at 363 West Broadway recently, and had to give possession yesterday, has moved into the room in the rear of White & Smith's real estate office, 304 East Broadway, until the four-room residence now building at 365 Ivy is completed, which will be in about a month.

Mrs. W. W. McElroy, 510 South Adams street, is entertaining with a series of luncheons by way of discharging some of the many obligations she has been under to various friends during the long period of semi-invalidism. The first is to be given Saturday to about twenty-five ladies of the Baptist church, complimentary to Mrs. E. S. Ford.

The weekly church night supper at Central Christian last evening was attended by 75 people, some of them visitors to the city. The bible study at 7 o'clock, led by Rev. Cole, was on the Jerusalem ministry of Jesus and was made very interesting to the 45 or more who attended. A prayer meeting lasting 30 minutes closed the evening's activities.

Many new houses are approaching completion each day now. Yesterday's list, as indicated by orders for electric light meters, included those of E. C. Jennings, 235 Kenilworth Ave.; A. L. Kneller, 424 Milford; J. W. Whitacre, 617 East Lomita Ave.; E. B. Clarke, 451 Riverdale Drive; E. L. Osborne, 406 West Wilson Ave.; Mrs. E. P. Ransom, 326 West Doran.

Business was light in the city recorder's court this morning, there being only eight cases on the docket for violations of the traffic ordinance, but there are 30 on the docket for next Tuesday, already. Although 36 new signs prohibiting turning of autos between street crossings were put up recently, there seems to be no let-up in the number of offenders in this respect.

Newspapers by Air

(By United Press)

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 5.—The Pittsburg Press recently introduced a method of delivering newspapers, new to the eastern section of the United States, when it instituted an airplane delivery between Pittsburg and this city. The success of this first venture has led the Press to consider adopting this mode of transportation to several other towns where it has a large number of subscribers.

The actual flying time for the initial trip was one hour and 14 minutes. The fastest mail train takes two hours and 55 minutes to come here from Pittsburg.

The large difference in time was in part due to the rail distance of nearly 120 miles being shortened by the machine soaring in a straight line over the Allegheny mountains, while the railroad is forced to circle the steep grades.

The fellows who are so well-flattered before election often find themselves well-flattened afterward.

Perhaps there is danger in having too many experts and not enough persons who just know how.

The Dust of the World

The Young-Old Philosopher had been visiting a wonderful old-fashioned home in the northern part of his state, and he was telling us about his experience.

"A vanishing type of life in America, alas!" he said it was. "It set me to thinking. When this was gone, what would there be to take its place? For this family had background. It was not a nouveau-riche household greedy and bold, ostentatiously vulgar with sudden wealth, but a quiet, simple group of people, young and old, with that dignity that comes of remaining in one spot through generations—just as a tree takes on a certain nobility because it is not flitting here and there. Birds, for instance, who visit trees, are lovely; but no one would think of calling them dignified. Our sporadic and nomadic tendencies in America are like to lead us to disaster. A home in one place for a while, and then a sudden restlessness, a desire to move on gypsy-like, to some unseen environment—that is how so many families go through life. But here I found the peace that only permanence brings. Vines hung from the broad verandas, and they looked as though they had always hung there—as they had, indeed. And the pictures on the walls belonged there—they were portraits of loved and loving ancestors; and a spinning wheel and an ancient harp, really handed down, told eloquently of vanished work and hushed music in candle-lighted rooms. There was a sense of quiet that soothed and heartened one. We were off the main-traveled roads, free from the rush and roar and confusion of traffic that has penetrated even our most remote districts nowadays; and one could settle down for a long, comfortable afternoon with no fear that there would be unwelcome intrusion. Books were around one in that intimacy which is the only way in which books should be known—you felt like caressing them, because you knew that many fine hands had caressed them years ago. They took on the splendor and beauty of age, when age has come to fruition gracefully. The servants walked with gentle footsteps; they had been in this household for many years, some of them all their lives. They were an integral part of it. And when Saturday evening came the young American chauffeur, whose father had been the coachman of the menage, gave a little dance in the barn, draped with flags and Japanese lanterns; and to this the guests, as well as all the servants, were invited. I saw my hostess, because there happened to be more women than men, dance with her maid, a Scotchwoman who would have made a splendid wife for any one; and the young son of the household was not ashamed to ask the butler's wife to take one spin with him. It was all spontaneous, beautiful, natural. There was no spirit of patronage—oh, no! That could never be. Then on Sunday evening there were family prayers, and every one who had been to the little dance came into the big living room and knelt down together for a few brief moments. A daughter played the organ, and every one sang. It was one of the most touching sights I ever saw. In how many American homes is this lovely custom followed? Here they had always done it. To have missed this simple habit would have been unthinkable.

"What are you and I doing that is akin to this? Do our children learn that the servants in our homes are to be treated as if they were human beings, not mere automatons? I am afraid not. Then how can they expect to carry on, when we are gone, something that they have never practiced? That is what I meant by wondering who were arising to continue such happy expressions of life. What standards have our children to guide their lives? Alas! they know of fine acting through the shadowy screen dramas with lurid titles and they read tormenting serials of blood and thunder, the cheap claptrap of cheaper minds, and think they are absorbing literature because such horrors are afterward given the doubtful dignity of publication between covers. Their dances are not fit to be called dances; they are skips and hops and swirls and swings through the hectic rooms. 'The world is too much with us,' and we must indeed beware that the dust of the world, created through our scurrying through it, does not wholly encompass us and shut out the light of the sun and moon and stars.

"I shall think of the peace and tranquility of that wonderful home for many days. Indeed, I know I shall never forget it. It is an influence, an inspiration, that will remain forever with me, unclouded by the dust of the world."—The Outlook.

The Kind We Want

The opinion is expressed by the Italian Ambassador that in the next three years 500,000 Italians will emigrate to the United States. The number does not disturb us in the least. The United States can absorb that number of immigrants, provided they are of the proper sort. The United States wants immigrants who have been good citizens in their own country—who have been law-abiding and thrifty. It wants immigrants who have learned to read and write their native language, so that they may the more readily learn to read and write the English language and more rapidly become familiar with American institutions. The United States wants immigrants who are in sound health physically and mentally, and who will not become a public charge. And in addition to these specifications, the United States wants immigrants who intend to renounce their former citizenship and become true and loyal citizens of America. Unless all of these conditions are fulfilled, the immigrants are not desired, whether they be five in number or 500,000. It is not likely that half a million Italians will come to America in the next three years, but, assuming that the estimate is fairly correct, we should take every precaution to see that none of the undesirable sort gets into this country.—Long Beach Telegram.

We invite you to visit the above hospital now under construction. It is located in the Piedmont Park tract, entrance on Lexington Street near Adams.

Your time will be profitably spent and you will learn that this splendid institution will be the pride of the city and second to no hospital in Southern California, and that we can accommodate patients with bed, board and general nursing for as little as $15 to $20 a week thereby giving families of moderate circumstances first class accommodations almost as cheap as they can live at home and at the same time pay you a good return on your investment.

We can do this because the total cost of all of our ground is only $7200 while a similar institution in Los Angeles paid $125,000 for less than half the ground we have and furthermore they have fewer beds. So when you remember that our incorporating expense, purchase of ground, building this hollow tile building and equipping the same complete, is only $100,000, you can readily see that we have wonderful possibilities.

Now isn't an institution of this character worthy of your support?

All common stock sold at $100 a share. You can pay for it by the month if you wish. We now have 175 families and sixteen physicians owning this stock. Doesn't it sound good to you?

Rise of Bolsheviki

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The bolsheviki have been in power in Russia since November 8, 1917. Their revolution began November 7 with the sudden seizure of the official telegraph news agency in Petrograd and the state bank. The next day the Petrograd garrison joined the movement and the government passed into the hands of Lenine and Trotzky, following the flight of Kerensky.

Bolsheviki means Maximalists. The Bolsheviki got their name because they insisted on the immediate application of the Maximalist socialist program of communism. Kerensky, who had come into power as a moderate socialist after the overthrow of the Romanoffs, opposed the Lenine-Trotzky Maximalist program. That, however, was not the cause of his overthrow. Kerensky was the friend of the allies. He wanted to keep Russia in the war. The Russian people, however, were war-weary. The Bolsheviki promised a quick peace and that was the fundamental reason why Red rule started in Russia.

The Bolsheviki quickly began negotiations with Germany for a separate peace. The Germans insisted on imperialistic terms. Trotzky and Lenine wanted to resist, but they had not the power. So, on February 11, 1918, the Bolsheviki brought about peace as it had never been proclaimed before. They declared the war was at an end and ordered demobilization on all fronts. At the same time they said they would sign no peace terms with Germany. This puerile attitude of hiding from insurmountable difficulties marked the Bolsheviki throughout its existence. The German army started a leisurely march on Petrograd and on March 3, 1918, the Bolsheviki signed peace on Germany's terms.

Meanwhile there were incipient uprisings against the Bolsheviki. They were easily put down because the Russians so ardently desired peace. But the Bolsheviki were in a weak minority numerically. At no time have they much exceeded half a million active workers. To prevent themselves from being outvoted in any test of strength with any other Russian party, the Bolsheviki dissolved the consistent assembly at Petrograd by armed force on January 20, 1918. Thereafter, throughout their administration, the Bolsheviki governed without any legislature to control them. They refused to let the Russian people vote upon any question concerning the kind of government Russia should have.

In March, 1918, the Bolsheviki transferred the capital to Moscow. They feared the uncertain temper of the people of Petrograd and they also wanted to be nearer Russia's food centres. In this they showed good judgment, for, under the inefficient administration of the soviets, Petrograd suffered from disease and famine more than any other part of Russia.

Once in Moscow the Bolsheviki introduced a complicated electoral system whereby final power was lodged in the hands of a dozen fanatics. The personnel of this group changed from time to time, except that Lenine and Trotzky were always the leaders. They retained the support of the workingmen and peasants by legalizing the seizure of all factories and land from the rightful owners. The factory hands agreed to the principle of communism and consented to the state's administering the occupied plants. The peasants, however, flatly refused to accept communism. Once the land had been taken from the great profiteers the peasants divided it up among themselves. They declined to recognize state ownership and insisted upon the peasant and proprietory system. This was contrary to the Bolsheviki theory, but Lenine and Trotzky dared not thwart the peasants.

The state administration of industry broke down completely. The Bolsheviki would give no encouragement to administrative skill and appointed incompetents to high executive posts. At the same time arrests and executions were ordered to stamp out counter-revolutionary activities by terrorism. Inefficiency developed everywhere except among the peasants. They flourished as never before. They had unprecedented quantities of food for themselves. They sent only small consignments to the industrial centres and kept the major parts at home. They had to do without manufactured articles, but they were never favored in this respect under the czars and did not greatly feel the privation.

A revolt agains the Bolsheviki in the industrial centres that would have overthrown this rule might soon have been brought about if the allies had left the Russians to themselves. The United States and Great Britain wished to follow this policy but France objected, insisting that the Bolsheviki must be overthrown quickly and that this could only be brought about by giving foreign aid to the disaffected groups within Russia.

Admiral Kolchak, General Denikine, General Wrangel and other Russian conservatives were supplied through French insistence with money and war munitions by the allies. But the only effect of this plan was to rally the vast majority of Russians to the defence of their country. Lenine and Trotzky cleverly persuaded the Russian people that the allies were intent upon destroying Russia. The response to the Bolsheviki call for volunteers for the army was overwhelming. Every attempt of the allies to fight Russia from within was defeated.

the Bolsheviki for defense purposes at last bred a spirit of military adventure. Poland had been encouraged by France to invade Russia and had suffered severe defeat. The Poles were driven from Russian territory. The conquering Russians became intoxicated with their successes. Instead of resting on their own frontier they pursued the enemy into Poland. The Poles were demoralized. A wave of imperialism swept over Russia. The Russians determined to take Warsaw. The Poles were badly led and their officers were not skilled in major strategic problems.

At this critical moment France sent to Warsaw General Weygand, Marshal Foch's most trusted lieutenant. Weygand saw at once that the Russians had committed their old military fault of outrunning their lines of communication. By a few masterly manoeuvers with the Polish army, demoralized as it was, he threatened to annihilate the Russian invaders. Their supplies were in grave danger and a retreat was necessary. Within a week Weygand had cleared Poland of Russian troops. Hardly a blow had been struck. It was all a series of problems in higher strategy.

The collapse of the military prestige of the Bolsheviki was followed by acceptance of the Polish peace terms. These terms were far different from the set of soviet conditions which Lenine and Trotzky had hoped to force upon the Poles. The disastrous adventure into Poland dismayed the Russian troops. They deserted by thousands and returned home disillusioned. Thereafter, revolts against the Bolsheviki began to be frequently reported from many parts of the country.

Demand for Farm Land

More tenants are now seeking farm lands than can be taken care of by the available farms, reports to the College of Agriculture of the University of California indicate.

Poultry farms are especially hard to obtain. Fruit men always have been slow to lease their orchards. Many renters are paying one-third of the gross output for grain land; one-quarter of the crop for sugar beets, beans and potatoes; as high as $40 per acre cash rent for alfalfa, cotton and certain truck lands. Even at these comparatively high prices the profits have been sufficient to date to stimulate a demand in excess of the supply.

"While tenancy of farm lands has its objectionable features," it was pointed out today by Dean Walter Mulford, "it does provide an opportunity for the qualified farmer to get into farming for himself with a minimum of capital, thereby making possible a start which might never come if purchase were the only means.

"Renting is a good thing, too, for the young man learning to farm; for the newcomer into the state who is unfamiliar with California conditions; for the progressive land purchaser whose decision should rest on judgment based on rather extensive knowledge of California farm lands. The tenants of today are, in many cases, the farmers and land owners of tomorrow. Within limits their efforts are worthy of encouragement."

California's Electricity

At a time when coal and petroleum problems have caused concern it has been made apparent that, eventually, the country will be compelled to supplement the use of these fuels with the development and utilization of its vast water power. Once installed the hydro-electric plant is operated at a comparatively low cost, the chief item of which is the interest on the investment. The source of energy is a constant factor.

The position of California as regards the future development of this power is one of exceptional promise. Among the indiviuual states, New York, with 981,520 horsepower, leads in the matter of power development and California, with 942,000 horsepower, is a close second. But in the New England states more than three-fourths of the potential power has been developed, while in the Far West about one-sixteenth is in use.

While there still remains a large field in the east and central west, it is to the Pacific Coast that enterprise dependent upon water power must turn. There is now in California, from a practical operating point of view, one vast system with lines from the Oregon border to Mexico, a distance of more than 800 miles, with seventy-five hydro-electric and forty-seven steam plants, and 7200 miles of high tension transmission lines. And the field has only been touched.

In presenting its advantages to those manufacturers who are looking to the Pacific Coast for its factory opportunities California may well emphasize its hydro-electric facilities.

Documentary Evidence

A Washington mother was not particularly pleased by the willingness of her daughter to proceed upon various excursions with a young man from another city.

"I would much prefer," said mother, "that you would not go sailing with that young man, Marie; I don't believe he knows a thing about a sailboat."

"Oh, but he does, mother!" was the quick response. "He showed me a letter of recommendation from a firm for which he worked, and they speak very highly indeed of his salesmanship."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Turkeys Will Gobble

There has been considerable speculation by people who have time and inclination for such lines of research and argument as to whether animals have the power of thought.

Advocates of these theories contend and cite instances to prove their contentions that dogs and horses certainly reason and that elephants, too, have powers of mind that man in his pride is wont to arrogate to himself alone.

Conceding for the sake of argument, that these theories are well-founded, what joy must reign in the turkey corrals this Thanksgiving, with the usual piece de resistance of the autumn feast day quoted at eighty-five cents a pound and likely to go higher in the next two weeks!

Can't you hear the turkeys, always haughty and disagreeable of disposition, gobble in disdain and derision? It's an ill-wind that blows nobody good. Old High Cost of Living will probably prolong the turkeys' living.

But the small boy who gobbles up all he's allowed to at the Thanksgiving feast—probably he'll have to content himself with something less than turkey this year, for a ten-pound turkey will make a larger inroad on mother's housekeeping budget than she can afford.

Lee County, Mississippi, has had a health campaign in which prizes were offered for health slogans contributed by school children. Four thousand slogans were produced; the first prize was won by this: "Chew your food; you have no gizzard." Fifteen hundred mile-posts bearing this and other useful health precepts were erected by enterprising merchants throughout the county.

"The cans for shipping cream were large and heavy. I asked, 'Do you have to wash these?' 'No,' was the reply, 'but before I use 'em I always fertilize 'em.'"

"It is hard to argue with our opponents," said General March in an after dinner speech recently. "They are more unreasonable than the lady who missed the train. 'We would not have missed the train,' the lady's husband growled, 'if you hadn't been so long dressing.' 'Yes,' she said, 'and if you hadn't hurried me so, we wouldn't have such a long wait now for the next."

Paper suits of clothing manufactured in Germany are now, according to a trade journal, being introduced in London. "These suits," the article states, "are cut in the latest West End styles, made up and ready to wear at a cost of from two to sixpence to ten and sixpence per suit. The firm manufacturing these suits points out that it would be cheaper to have a new paper suit every week for one year than have one cloth suit at present tailors' prices."

A train of thought often has derailments or collisions.

In Utah, machinery is being taken to a mine and certain rare ores brought to the railroad by airplanes in a few hours. Formerly six weeks were required to make thte journey by wagon.

There is no place like home to the fellow who hasn't one.

L. W. Bradley has bought the place at 825 East Maple and after it is vacated next week by H. Taura and family, who will return to Japan, he will remodel and repair the house and then move into it.

LOCAL RED CROSS SEEKS MEMBERS

PLANS FOR THE ANNUAL ROLL CALL WILL BEGIN ON ARMISTICE DAY

WORKERS ANXIOUS

TWO THOUSAND MEMBERS AT ONE DOLLAR EACH, AIM OF COMMITTEE

The organization of the city into districts for commencing the Red Cross roll call is rapidly approaching completion. This campaign will open officially on Armistice Day, next Thursday, Nov. 11th, and it is hoped that the quota of 2000 yearly members at $1 each will be made up on the first day.

The Roll Call director and her assistants have been promised aid from churches, clubs, fraternal orders and individuals and the work will be systematically done. The Red Cross war work program is not yet completed, for there are still 26,000 soldier and sailor boys in army and navy hospitals, where only the Red Cross can go. And there are six shiploads of American volunteers fighting in Poland, the Red Cross director informs us. Red Cross workers are needed to follow these boys, just as they did on the western front. The treasury is greatly depleted, almost empty, in fact, and the great peace program has hardly been commenced. This includes a great deal—public health, education, first aid, provisions for public safety, instruction, care of indigent, maimed and blinded soldiers' families. The only institution for the care of blinded soldiers is run by the Red Cross under government supervision. An efficient organization, nation-wide, of the Red Cross, is needed to give early aid in times of flood, great accidents and fires, and other dire happenings, so it is very necessary that the organization be kept up to the highest point of efficiency and well supplied with funds.

During the war whole families in Glendale gladly paid in their dollars for yearly memberships and this example should be followed now. In a city of 20,000 people, with nearly everybody prosperous, it should not be hard to enroll 10,000 members at a dollar each.

COLORADO ST. P.-T. A.

LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING HELD—NEW PLAN PROPOSED

With a large and enthusiastic attendance, the Colorado Street P.-T. A. held its second meeting of the year, at the school building Thursday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Dotson, gave an outline of her plans for a child welfare room, where the small children of the P.-T. A. members might be taken care of while their mothers are at the meetings. This will include, besides two or more mothers, a story teller who will entertain the children. After some discussion the members decided to try this plan for a number of months, and if successful it will be continued for the balance of the school year.

Mrs. Danford spoke on the library and its interests and aims in the life of the community, and also spoke in favor of the room for small children of P.-T. A. mothers, offering help and advice in all possible ways. She also read the library creed, which was very interesting.

Miss Viola Yorba, accompanied by Mrs. Keller, gave two very pleasing vocal solos, "Down in the Forest," by Renald, and as an encore, "Just You," by Burleigh.

Fire on Cerritos Ave.

While Officer Blix was making his rounds in South Glendale last night, he discovered a small blaze in the screen porch at 322 West Cerritos avenue, where a family named Small live. It resulted from their leaving the current turned on in an electric iron. He had hard work to awaken the family after sending in an alarm to Fire Department No. 2. The sound of the siren alarmed the whole city and soon Engine 3 was hurrying to the scene to supplement the work of No. 2 from the fire house on Los Feliz Road. By the time a stream of water was turned on the flames they were creeping up to the roof of the porch, but were soon extinguished, with small loss to the house. This occurred at 10:30 last night.

The lower the gown the higher the price.

ARMISTICE DAY PLANS PROGRESS

CAPT. DRU NICOLES OF LOCAL AMERICAN LEGION POST TO BE GRAND MARSHAL

CITIZENS TO HELP

BIG PARADE WILL TRAVERSE PRINCIPAL STREETS OF THE CITY

Plans for the Armistice Day celebration are rapidly rounding into shape and the heads of the various committees report excellent progress. The merchants of Glendale are being urged to decorate their establishments and all citizens are requested to join in displaying the national colors.

The line of march has not as yet been decided upon, but in all probability it will traverse the principal streets and will terminate at some central point. Community singing will be a feature at this point.

All citizens having automobiles and desiring to participate in the parade are urged to decorate their machines.

A number of machines will be needed to carry the smaller school children. Anyone wishing to proffer his car for this purpose is requested to communicate with J. G. Monaghan, chairman, at 925 Stocker St. Phone 817-J.

The Armistice Day committee were successful in obtaining the services of Clem Moore, who will act as general manager and to whom all sub-committees will report.

Capt. Dru Nicoles, Commander of Glendale Post American Legion, will act in the capacity of Grand Marshal of the parade.

The Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale has accepted the committees invitation to take part in the parade, and they have authorized the city's fire department to participate, using the fire apparatus.

It is probable that a division of mounted police will lead the procession. The city has taken charge of the street decorations and will use the flags loaned by the Greater Glendale Development association for the occasion.

All city hall offices will be closed on Armistice Day, and all employes will be given the whole day as a holiday, except those who are needed to carry on the necessary work of the city.

Homeward Bound

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Montgomery and son, Stanton, of 415 South Central avenue, will reach Glendale at 6 o'clock this evening after a ten weeks' visit in the East. They visited Mrs. Montgomery's brother, who lives in Minneapolis, Minn., for several days. They left Salt Lake City last night.

On

Thanksgiving?

That's the day of all days when the dinner must be perfectly cooked. Wouldn't it be the part of wisdom to install that new gas range now and be ready to cook the big dinner when the day comes?

You may need new cooking utensils also, a roaster in which to cook the king of the feast, new kettles, saucepans, etc.

Daylight Burglary

A daring daylight burglary, similar in nearly every particular to one committed several months ago in a residence at 217 West Lomita avenue, was reported to the police yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Willy Kohl, of 732 South Columbus avenue. All the family were away from home except Mrs. Kohl's brother-in-law. The burglar evidently entered through the front door by means of a pass key and moved about so lightly as not to disturb the only inmate. He ransacked the house from top to bottom, securing a man's purse containing a $20, a $10 and a $5 bill, also several silver dollars; and a velvet handbag in which were $2 in change and a ring.

Entertained at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson were hosts at an elegantly appointed six-course dinner on Wednesday evening, complimenting Mr. and Mrs. C. McDonald, a bridal couple, who made a flying visit here this week to Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Scott, parents of Mrs. McDonald.

The beautiful new home of the Robinsons at 630 North Jackson street was made gay and festive for the happy occasion by myriads of bright blossoms, and covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. C. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Scott, parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Dodge, Mrs. A. M. Pratt, grandmother of the bride, Miss Mildred Martin and the host and hostess.

—when your thread breaks in the midst of a seam

When an ordinary shuttle catches the fine thread and snaps it; when the bobbin "runs out;" when in either case you have to stop in the middle of a seam, remove the material, repair the break and start all over—it's aggravating, isn't it? Yet, the woman who owns an Edison Electric Sewing Machine knows that these are needless troubles. The extra-capacity bobbin, the trouble-proof shuttle, the powerful motor, the perfect control, the noiseless, easy operation—all these are only a few of the many superiorities of the EDISON. It costs little to own one.

It's easily possible for you to own this sewing machine, at once! Ask about terms.

THEY PURSUE A DESTRUCTIVE POLICY

Any action on the part of financial institutions that tends to discourage the automobile industry should be avoided. Bankers in some parts of the country have been curtailing the credit of automobile dealers on the theory that this is one way of discouraging extravagance. When you look at this proposition from but one angle you will probably be inclined to agree with these bankers; but when you consider the question in its broader sense you may disagree with them.

Let us look at the matter briefly from a moral standpoint. The automobile has been a great factor in closing the saloon, where millions of dollars were worse than thrown away every week. Liquor not only degraded and ruined a great majority of men who used it, but it also brought suffering and shame to their families. Instead of spending this money over a bar, these men now maintain automobiles, which are a source of real enjoyment and happiness to them and their families. Which is the better way to spend this money, whether you call it extravagance or not?

No doubt, in these times of plenty, many do indulge in extravagances, but all things are comparative. The luxuries of yesterday may be the necessities of today. The silk shirt may be classed as a luxury, as they could all be discarded without inconveniencing anyone. But not so with the automobile. The motor car sets the pace for modern civilization, whether it is used for pleasure or for profit. The automobile is no longer a luxury, but is a necessity. The traction lines are no longer equal to handling the crowds in our cities. Without motor car transportation we could not handle our food supply or transact the essential business of the day. Regardless of the health and recreation features of the automobile industry, and these are important, the country would be seriously harrassed by anything that might interfere with motor production.

The banker who, either by shutting down upon the credit of a reputable dealer or refusing to loan money to a prospective purchaser of an automobile, without regard to financial status and only because it is to be expended upon an automobile, follows a blind policy, although his intentions may be of the best.

Automobile and truck dealers, accessory and supply men are entitled to the same consideration at the hands of bankers that is accorded to other merchants of the same moral and financial standing. In some communities in the country they are not receiving it owing to the misdirected efforts to suppress or curtail extravagance.

S. S. Convention

The leadership of the Southern California Sunday School army of nearly 170,000 will meet in their thirtieth annual convention at Pomona, November 9, 10 and 11. It is estimated that 1500 delegates will attend this convention.

Pomona will receive and entertain the convention on the Harvard plan.

The Southern California Sunday School association is the mother of Sunday School improvement and is the only organization in Southern California that represents the community task in religious education since it represents and includes all Protestant Evangelical churches.

The program for this annual convention is of unusual interest. The evening sessions will take the form of a school-of-methods, in which there will be nine classes running simultaneously in two teaching periods of forty minutes each.

Faculty and convention speakers have been selected with great care. E. W. Halpenny of Chicago represents the International Sunday School association. Prof. Herbert F. Evans, of Berkeley, is a great teacher and speaker. The quiet hour periods of the convention will be in charge of Dr. James A. Francis of Los Angeles and Dr. Lincoln A. Ferris of San Diego. Dr. John G. Hill and Prof. J. H. Montgomery, of the University of Southern California, will have prominent places in the program, as will a host of other leaders and speakers. In all, there are 100 people on the program.

One of America's greatest song leaders, Prof. J. B. Trowbridge, will have charge of the convention music. Children to the number of three or four hundred will favor the first evening of the convention with a festival of song.

The railroads have shown interest and on the certificate plan will grant delegates the round trip for one and one-half fare.

Hugh C. Gibson, the general secretary, says that everything gives promise for the greatest convention in the history of the association.

Camp Fire Permits

The branch offices of the Automobile Club have just received a number of camp fire permits, issued by the United States Department of Forestry. All members of the club, and in fact everyone who expects to go out camping this fall, are urged to be sure and get one of these permits before going into the country. It will save time, trouble, and probably money to be provided with one of these necessary permits, and it costs nothing to procure them from the club officials. In connection with this courtesy offered by the United States Forestry Department, all persons camping out are cautioned to put out all fires both by pouring water on them, and afterwards covering the ashes with dirt. A little extra precaution in this respect may be the means of saving considerable areas of fine timber as well as human life. Campers are also asked to burn all rubbish about their camps, and observe sanitary regulations generally.

Telephone or call on the branch offices of the Automobile Club of Southern California and get your permit before going into the woods.

TENDERFOOT HIKING

Two tenderfeet,
That look very neat,
Went on a long hike,
To stay over night.

The night was dark,
And with a spark
They made a big fire,
Which was their desire.

About twelve o'clock
Jim woke with a shock.
Jack gave a groan
And fell back with a moan.

In the morn they woke,
Jim looked very remote.
"What's up," asked Jack,
"Got yer nerves on a rack?"

"Oh I got a pain,
My foot is lame
And oh, my back,"

"Gee, Jim,
My eyes are dim
And food I lack,"
Was the complaint of Jack.

"I saw a bear
And I'll declare
I had some night
And I thought I saw a light!

"I heard an owl,
You ought to hear it howl;
I thought it was a cow,
That was kicking up a row."

Still Training Soldiers

BERLIN. (By Mail.)—That certain German military groups are still recruiting men and then releasing them after a brief training is the claim of a number of recently demobilized Reichswehr soldiers.

They say that men are taken in for a period of two or three months and then released as the decrease of the army is obligatory under the peace treaty. But, when they are released, they pledge to again serve the colors, if called.

This course is understood to have been followed at the individual initiative of certain commanders and not at the order of the government heads.

Back to the "Simple Life"

The Glendale Sanitarium operates on the theory that you cannot get well thinking about your difficulties. You cannot get well doing the very same things and living in the very same atmosphere that produced illness. Medicines can never take the place of Nature's own curatives.

You need pure air, rest, proper food, proper exercise, healthful surroundings and simple treatments. The broken-in-health body needs a real service—not a service that prods it into temporary activity only to suffer a relapse, but one that is regenerative and reconstructive in its fundamental character and the effect of which is permanent.

The Glendale Sanitarium system of treatment excludes medical and dietetic fads. The keynote is simplicity in habits—a return to Nature in principle, the utilization of those great powers which create and maintain all living things and which alone are able to cure.

AMERICAN UNIFORM

ONLY A FEW THOUSANDS OF THE TWO MILLION DOUGHBOYS STILL IN EUROPE

(By United Press)

PARIS, Oct. 27. (By Mail.)—Of the 2,000,000 doughboys who celebrated the armistice two years ago in France, there remain in Europe today:

About 15,000 in the Army of Occupation on the Rhine;

Several hundred in the Graves Registration department, looking after 400 cemeteries in various parts of France;

Perhaps 25 officers, with headquarters at 7 Rue Tilsitt, settling up the last of the A. E. F.'s bills;

And nearly all of these are new recruits shipped over after the armistice.

On the boulevards, two years ago, peopled by doughboys, the American uniform has again become a curiosity. Occasionally heads are turned with a reminiscent smile as a khaki-clad man with a big A on his sleeve walks across the Place de Opera.

Of the some four of five thousand who hid in the back alleys of Paris when their comrades went home, probably not more than a thousand, perhaps only several hundred, remain. Army authorities still pick up these deserters from time to time—one in a police court, another in a jail, a few on recognition in a cafe or on the street, and ship them home in handcuffs. Most of them were criminally inclined before entering the army and went back to their old trade in Paris.

The second anniversary of the armistice will see the Yankee soldier in France already receded into history.

As to the two tiny military branches in France. It is estimated that another year will be required to complete the removal to America of the bodies whose removal has been requested by relatives. Thus far, requests have been received for about two-thirds of the number buried in France. The remaining third will be concentrated in four or five large burying grounds.

Colonel Warden, military attache at Paris, placed the total claims still to be settled at about 3000, generally small amounts; bills from French civilians for services or supplies.

MILADY'S CLOTHES

RIOT OF COLOR TAKES PLACE ON TINSEL FOR WINTER WEAR

By "MARJORIE"
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Whither away with all the trillion yards of tinsel, metallic threads, beads, appliques, stencils, and gewgaws of every sort that have been flaunted upon milady's suit and coat these past few months? It is a curious fact that from the day when the first New York store enumerated how many shopping days there were before Christmas, suits and coats seemed suddenly simplified. The curious are wondering if there was not enough tinsel for both old Dame Fashion and the Yuletide trees.

Whatever the cause the fact is very evident that the better shops are now showing garments almost entirely free from the burden of superfluous trimming that has been in evidence since the opening of the fall season. Fifth Avenue shops are showing suits very chic in line and very simple. Really good furs are used for choker collars, and an occasional motif embroidered or beaded may lurk on collar or cuff. But the ornateness and garishness that characterized everything only a few weeks ago is rapidly disappearing.

Even so, the shops look no less like an Arabian Nights bazaar, for there is enough gorgeousness of coloring and fabric to atone for the lesser quantity of tinsel. Soft-piled fabrics such as veldyne, duvet de laine, peachbloom, and velvet are much in evidence and there are wonderful new shades of copper, wistaria, blues and greens. These gayer shades are used mainly in dressy afternoon or evening suits, but the street and business suits exploit quiet shades of taupe and brown, blue and gray.

Albeit that suits and coats have been trained into the way that they should go, the many 'o'ther things" of milady's wardrobe can stand considerable "toning down." Even lingerie is becoming garishly giddy and is showing its true colors of hectic greens, blues, violets and rose. The most up-to-snuff lingerie is of black lace or net garnished with metallic or silk flowers. This vogue is found from corsets to lounging robes. All the hectic Oriental coloring seems to have betaken itself to negligees. Fashion permits every woman to be a vampish "Serpent of the Nile" in the privacy of her own boudoir. The favored robes are of dark-hued brocaded satins encrusted with stenciled flowers of garish hue. Black brocades embroidered in huge gold roses or lotus lilies are very il faut. Trinkets of hammered bronze or copper dingle from girdle and sleeves. Opulence gleams in every fold of these new boudoir robes. Velvet batiks cut a la mandarin come in rich hues of rose and purple, green or orange. Jeweled girdles of roughly-cut stones are found in others. Bands of priceless ermine or mink garnish others and even the most ordinary negligees are dressed up with trimmings of colored brushed wool or rich bandings.

The trouser cut is found in many of the negligees. One of the most striking seen upon the avenue used black satin brocade for the bloomer part and goid lace for the overskirt. Flowers fashioned from beads and wool were dotted over the transparent lace. Some of the models make no pretence of being sansculotte. The pajama lounging robe is featured heavily by the retailers. It comes in the same gorgeous colors and rich fabrics as do the bona fide robes.

Must Pay Death Penalty

(By United Press)

STATE PENITENTIARY, SALEM, Ore., Nov. 5.—One of the three lives which, the law decreed, shall be given for one, was to be choked off here today when Emmett Bancroft, alias Neil Hart, was scheduled to go to his death on the gallows.

Bancroft, an Indian half-breed, with four other prisoners, escaped from the county jail at Pendleton, Ore., July 25th, this year, after killing Sheriff Til Taylor, one of the best-known and popular officers in Oregon.

Bancroft admitted, during his trial, it was he who fired the shot which killed Sheriff Taylor. It was largely due to his testimony, at a subsequent trial, that Elvin Kerby and Jack Rathie, fellow conspirators in the jail-delivery plan, were convicted of first-degree murder. They are under sentence to hang December 3. From the time he was captured, three days after the jail delivery, until he was brought to the penitentiary, Bancroft maintained the stoic demeanor which characterizes the Indian.

But once behind the prison bars, his manner became subdued. He told the prison warden he wished to accept the Protestant religion, and at his request he was frequently visited by a clergyman.

A church was built at Santa Rosa, California, and every part of it, except the flooring, came from one tree, a giant redwood which yielded 78,000 feet of timber and many shingles.

Ice forming on the Yukón River October 8th has resulted in steamers being shut in for the winter.

30,000 Houses Short

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—Municipal authorities here were considering a number of plans to relieve the housing shortage which is becoming aggravated by the unprecedented influx of immigrants. One plan would provide for construction of houses by the city, with municipal supervision.

A canvass of the foreign sections showed that in nearly all cases houses built to roof one family were occupied by two and sometimes three families. This is a detriment to the health and welfare of the community, according to Dr. Furbush of the Health Department here.

Experts figure that Philadelphia is short today 30,000 six-room houses. Builders claim that due to the high cost of materials and labor, more than $160,000,000 would be required to build the number of houses needed. Six thousand dollars is the average cost to construct a six-room house, according to contractors. During the first nine months of 1920, only 1170 permits to build homes were issued, as against 9503 for 1915, and 7758 for 1916.

When complimented on a delicious entree served at her recent dinner, one of our popular hostesses confessed that the recipe was one of Nicholas M. Sabatini's best known dishes, which the famous Delimonica Chef writes daily for the Los Angeles Examiner.—Adv.
